Always So With Women

When Mrs. Adam used to roam, About her lovely country home, She had a wide and swinging stride, Unencumbered by clinging garments, She read no fashion magazine, Her clothes were suited to her means, And left her knees free to rise and flee From snakes and other varmints.

But when the fashions first were born, Eve's daughters hastened to adorn Themselves with clothes and furbelows That cramped their every action, The more their husbands fussed at this,

The greater grew the ladies' bliss, And newer styles aroused glad smiles Of inward satisfaction.

When Jeremiah grew distressed About the way the ladies dressed, And sternly cried that sinful pride Had placed them all past saving, The women left off balking ples, And toiled like beavers to devise New things to wear to make men stare And let them go on raving.

And so, though men may rage and storm, And writhe and preach on dress reform, They might as well go out and tell Their troubles to the breezes, For women still, with placid smiles,

Will tranquilly pursue the styles; Till judgment day she'll have her way And put on what she pleases.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

WHEN MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT BRINGS BACK ITS LUSTRE AND ABUNDANCE.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

What He Wanted.

There are times when the ingenuity of even a floorwalker is taxed to the limit. The floorwalker, understand, is supposed to be a general intelligence office in a department store. If the store keeps any article he is supposed to be able to tell the prospective customer at what counter the article may be purchased, and just how to find that counter.

The other day a man, evidently just over from the tight little Isle, walked up to a floorwalker in a New York store.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but where can I find the raisers?"

"The cutlery department is in the basement," replied the floorwalker, and gave directions for finding the stairs.

"Oh, but I don't want the cutlery department, I want—"

"Well, come to think of it, the safety razors are in the men's furnishing department this week," said the floorwalker, and then told how to get to that department.

The Englishman was flustered. "I want to find the raisers."

"And I'm trying to tell you where to find them."

"But I mean raisers," insisted the Englishman.

"Exactly. I understand you; you want a razor?"

"Not to shave with," said the customer, "but to go up in."

"Elevator?" asked the floorwalker.

The Englishman breathed easy. "Yes, that's it. I knew you didn't call them lifts, as we do, and I thought I'd made myself plain."

Then he received directions as to how to get to the elevator.

HAMON FREED OF INDICTMENT

WAS RELIEVED FROM FEDERAL COURT INDICTMENT — WAS CHARGED WITH FOUR OTHERS

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 3.—Jake L. Hamon of Lawton, former republication state chairman and promoter of the Ringling railroad and the new town of Wilson, was relieved Tuesday from a federal court indictment charging him and four others, with conspiracy to conceal the assets of the now defunct Supply company of Cache, Comanche county.

United States Judge Cottrell sustained a demurrer to the indictment but held Hamon and co-defendants under their present bonds, pending submission of the case to the next federal grand jury.

Besides Hamon, the indictment charged Ed Leckie, proprietor of the Cache Supply company, a general store; M. S. Simpson, Morris Trope and R. B. Banks. It was alleged that the five conspired to conceal the assets and property of the company from the referee in bankruptcy in evasion of the bankruptcy law.

The indictment was returned at Lawton in September, 1913. Attorneys Henry E. Asp and John Embury of Oklahoma City appeared for the accused men Tuesday. Embury presented the demurrer, and Judge Cottrell sustained it on the ground that the indictment was not properly connected with the conspiracy allegations.

FEUDIST SHOT TO DEATH.

Was On Trial for Killing Rival Gangman—Barkeeper Surrenders. St. Louis, March 3.—Wesleyan (Red) Simon, on trial here on a charge of murdering Emmet Carroll in a gang feud nearly a year ago, Monday was shot and killed in a nearby saloon during a recess on the court in which he was being tried. Shortly after the killing Henry Zang, a bartender, principal witness for the prosecution, surrendered at central police station.

The sheriff had feared an attack would be made on Simon and had detailed four special policemen to guard him in the courthouse. When the shooting occurred they were on a street corner two blocks away.

Zang said that Simon, after making a menacing gesture with a threat, put his hand toward his hip pocket. When Simon's body was examined no revolver was found; his pockets were battered. The police Monday night Zang said Simon came into the saloon where he was drinking and told somebody "that fellow will never live to testify against me."

John Gross, who was in the saloon when the shooting occurred, said that he and Zang had been there about twenty minutes when Simon entered and invited everybody to have a drink. While the drinks were being served, Gross said, Zang and Simon stepped behind the partition that separates the bar from the cigar counter and the shooting followed.

The killing of Carroll, for which Simon was placed on trial Monday, occurred in a saloon last March. After the tragedy Carroll's body was placed in an automobile and left near the home of Mrs. Mary Hagerly, whose daughter discovered the body. Simon was arrested and admitted he shot Carroll, but pleaded self-defense.
